It is our desire to help missionaries and ministries by connecting them to resources and materials. More and more of our time is invested in "networking" on behalf of other ministries.

What is networking? Think of "connecting the dots"...people with needs...people with resources and the logistics to get the two together.

We are continually discovering new resources, new needs and people with a passion to serve others in the name of Jesus. We meet some fascinating people and find brand new tools for ministries.

Networking takes time because it is built on friendships and business relationships. This often involves personal visits to other ministries, conferences, many phone calls and emails. So why do we do it?

"So that the body of Christ may be built up".... Ephesians 4:12 it's our ministry and our passion. Let us help you.

We're a nonprofit that provides technical support services—such as aviation, information technology, and media—to advance Bible translation and literacy programs worldwide. JAARS Purchasing and Shipping keeps the supply lines flowing to hundreds of translation and literacy programs throughout the world.

Through our network of experienced buyers and shipping clerks, missionaries in some of the world's most remote areas can order nearly anything: from men's socks to mattresses, aircraft parts to office supplies.

Our team handles the pricing research, purchasing arrangements and shipping coordination, allowing translators and support personnel to continue working without the stresses and delays caused by logistical difficulties.

We process more than 7,500 purchase requests annually, encompassing roughly $750,000 worth of goods. Last year, roughly 300,000 pounds of supplies were shipped to missionaries in more than 80 countries—supplies such as computers and auto parts, school books and printing pages, shoes and sheets.
